

Wanda Cason

Wanda's grandparents homesteaded in the Mancos Valley, and both of her parents were born there. She graduated from Mancos High School, and attended Fort Lewis College for 3 years. Wanda worked for an insurance adjuster, and eventually obtained an Insurance Adjusters license and worked in Montezuma, La Plata, and Archuleta counties for 20 years. She then worked in my husbands business, until they retired in 2008.

Wanda has a daughter who is a pharmacist, a son who is a builder, a step-daughter who is a RN, and a step-son who is a mechanical engineer. They all attended FLC, but graduated from other universities. Her 9 grandchildren range from 1 to 15 years old.

Wanda became interested in politics in the 90's and has worked on a number of political campaigns. She is currently on the La Plata County Planning Commission, and was recently appointed by Governor Ritter to serve on the Health Insurance Mandates board. Wanda joined the San Juan RC&D Council in October 2008. She also volunteers for a number of organizations, including the Manna Soup Kitchen.
